The Bank shall continue to build harmonious relationship with its stockholders and other parties with whom it may have obligations or contract with. It shall continue to promote mutual respect among the parties, including regulatory bodies, to avoid any conflict or controversy with them.

In case of conflict or controversy between the parties, the Bank recognizes that the same may be settled through alternative dispute resolution than traditional and tedious court action. The Bank thus adheres to appropriate alternative dispute resolution system for early settlement of conflicts with said parties.

Alternative Dispute Resolution means any process for resolving a conflict or controversy other than by adjudication of a presiding judge of a court or an officer of a government agency.

A. The Bank and its Stockholders

The Bank and its stockholders shall attempt in good faith to resolve any conflict that may arise between them relating to their rights and responsibilities provided in the Articles of Incorporation, By-Laws and this Manual, before resorting to court action. The Bank and its stockholders may opt to settle their conflicts through direct negotiation between them, without the intervention of a third party. If the parties believe that negotiation is not an efficient alternative mode of resolving their dispute, or it does not produce results satisfactory to them, they may opt for other modes of alternative dispute resolution which may include, among others, mediation and arbitration.

If either party believes that the conflict or controversy is not suitable for any alternative resolution mechanisms or if such other mechanisms do not produce results satisfactory to the parties, either party may proceed to court action.

B. The Bank and Other Parties

In the event of a conflict or controversy between the Bank and another party, including regulatory bodies, which also adheres and agrees to resort to alternative dispute resolution, the Bank undertakes to explore with that other party the resolution of their conflict through negotiation or other alternative mechanism, as agreed upon, before pursuing court action.
